

Grade K
Science
Daily Observations Unit
Learning Targets

We are learning to observe changes in the weather throughout the day and from day to day.

We are looking for drawings, pictures or photographs that show different types of weather.

We are looking for observations and measurements that describe the wind, temperature and precipitation.

We are learning to observe patterns of the moon, sun and stars.

We are looking for drawings, pictures or photographs that show the changes in the positions of the sun and moon.

Grade K
Science
Living Things Unit
Learning Targets

We are learning through observations to describe and compare living things in Ohio.

We are looking for drawing drawings, pictures or photographs that show characteristics and traits of living things.

- Living things reproduce
- Living things are found almost everywhere in the world
- There are somewhat different kinds of living things in different places

We are learning that living things are made up of a variety of structures.

We are looking for drawing drawings, pictures or photographs that show traits and behaviors of living things that influence their survival.

Grade K
Science
Properties Unit
Learning Targets

We are learning to sort objects and materials by their properties.

We are looking for objects and materials that are sorted by color, size or texture.

Grade K
Science
Sound Unit
Learning Targets

We are learning how to produce sounds by tapping, plucking and blowing objects to create vibrations.

- We are looking for different ways to make sounds.
- We are looking for ways to make sounds louder and softer.
- We are looking for ways to change the pitch of sounds.